containing an area of 1.800 square feet.

The land and premises situate at the south angle of Nuuanu and Merchant streets, which an undivided half will be sold, as above, has for the owners of the other undivided half the heirs of the estate of the late Hon.
James W. Austin of Boston.

Further information concerning the said parcels of land may be obtained by application at my office, room 306, Judd building, Honolulu.

The titles of the land to be sold as above mentioned have been adjudicated by the court. Sales will be subject to confirmation by the court. Deeds at expense of purchasers.

ROYAL D. MEAD,
Commissioner.

Dated Honolulu, October 30, 1900.
5689—October 30, Nov. 6, 13, 20.

Honolulu are gradually beginning to take advantage of the special delivery system of the postoffice. Until the houses are numbered, however, the full benefit of the system will not be felt, as at present it is an exceedingly difficult matter to locate people by the oftentimes indefinitely addressed envelopes and packages.

Honolulu has had a special delivery system before but it never amounted to anything. H. M. Whitney, at one time Postmaster General here, issued special delivery envelopes; they were used for a year or so and then gradually disappeared.
There was very little demand for them at that time and no further attempt was made to establish the system.
Now Uncle Sam has charge of postal matters and the special delivery stamp of the United States is on sale at the postoffices of the Territory. To be sure, there have been very few of these stamps used since the 14th of June, but more and more are being purchased all the time and it will, in all probability, not be very long before the people appreciate the great convenience of the special delivery system.

Nothing is more perfect than the United States postoffice system and no postal authorities are more anxious to accommodate the public, to every possible extent, than the postoffice officials of Honolulu. This has been proven, in one way, by the experience of the special delivery in Honolulu during the last few months.
Often have letters and parcels been mailed at the Honolulu postoffice, handing the special delivery stamp, where the addresses were exceedingly indefinite. In many of these cases the officials have put themselves out to see that the person to whom the letters were directed received them in the office or at the address. It is not such a difficult matter to do the letter, even though it be improperly or indefinitely addressed. But let the person be unknown to the officials and it then becomes an exceedingly difficult or impossible thing to accomplish the delivery. At present the absence of numbers on the houses in Honolulu adds to the difficulty; when the houses are numbered, however, things will be very much simplified.

A letter was mailed to the Advertiser yesterday, bearing a special delivery stamp, as an experiment, in order that it might be seen just how long it would take on its journey through the postoffice to the office of the Advertiser. The letter was dropped in the City box at the postoffice at exactly 1:31 o'clock p. m. It was received for in the office of the Advertiser at 2:02 p. m.—just eleven minutes after it had been dropped in the mail box at the postoffice.

This was quick work when one considers the handling which the letter had to go through before it was delivered. The mail chutes are emptied every few minutes at the postoffice and special delivery letters are particularly looked for. The letter in question only remained in the box a minute or two before it was taken therefrom with many others and started on its way to the office of the Advertiser.
First of all, though, it was sent to the desk of the man who has charge of all special delivery letters. The stamps were cancelled, the cancellation indicating the time, 2 p. m. Then the letter was recorded in a book kept for the purpose. It was given a number, the date of its receipt, a local address was noted, its address was copied, the date, hour and minute of registering were recorded, the name of the messenger who was to deliver the letter was also entered and afterwards, when the letter had been delivered and received for, the time of delivery was recorded as well as the name of the person signing for its receipt. All this, of course, occupied but a moment, but then it means considerable work when there are many special delivery letters.

The post law allows no salary to be paid for messengers to deliver these special delivery letters. Those delivering them are entitled to 50 per cent of the value of the special stamp which the letter or package bears. So that the messenger would receive eight cents for the delivery of each letter. At present, when there is a special to be delivered, some one in the office is sent out with it. When the number of letters increase to any extent, however, messengers will have to be kept on hand to carry them. They will receive 8 cents on the letter, but according to the postal laws cannot receive more than $30 per month.

Assistant Postmaster Kenake very kindly furnished an Advertiser reporter with the above information. Mr. Kenake stated that very few special delivery letters were going through the postoffice at present, but that when the houses were numbered and Honolulu had gotten used to the great convenience of the system there would probably be enough special letters passing through the office to keep several boys busy the greater part of the day.

AUSTRALIA SEEKING A CAPITAL.

VANCOUVER, (B. C.), Nov. 2.—Australian advices indicate the probable selection of Albany, New South Wales, as the capital of Federated Australia.
Lord Hopetoun, the first Governor-General, will arrive in Sydney on December 1st. The federated colonies are making strong objection to the proposed incorporation of the Fiji Islands by New Zealand.

The New Zealand Government has asked the approval of the Parliament of that colony for one year of the agreement with J. D. Spreckels & Bros. for a continuance of the San Francisco mail service once every three weeks.
Instead of every four weeks, the time between San Francisco and Auckland to be not more than sixteen days. The payment for the conveyance of mails from New Zealand to San Francisco shall be at the rate of 10s. 6d. per pound for letters, 1 shilling per pound for books and 6 pence per pound for newspapers.

A LEPROSY CURE
THAT HAS MERITS

Dr. Hoffmann Gives Some Facts of The Chaulmoogra Treatment.

HAS science gained such a foothold in the treatment of leprosy that its ravages can be checked?
Dr. Walter Hoffmann, bacteriologist for the Board of Health of Hawaii, is conducting experiments on twelve lepers at the Kalihi Receiving Station with an old, a very old medicine. It is an oil taken from a tree which is indigenous to the soil of India and called Chaulmoogra.

Dr. Hoffmann stated to an Advertiser reporter last evening that he was pleased with the results of his experiments on the dozen unfortunate people who have been detained at the Kalihi Receiving Station awaiting shipment to the Molokai Leper Settlement, having been officially declared subjects for segregation from the healthy world.
Instead of using the oil internally he is using it externally by hypodermic injections. The symptoms produced were exactly those described by Dr. W.
Donitz in an article on the subject in the Berliner Klinische Wochenschrift, entitled "Treatment for Leprosy."

He describes the treatment of two women in a hospital in Berlin. One a Frenchwoman had contracted the disease of leprosy in India. The other a German became affected with the disease in Liebu, Germany. Both women were troubled about the eyes. Dr.
Donitz treated the patients with the oil of the Chaulmoogra with good results.

Formerly the oil had been used extensively in leper countries the world over, internally and externally. The oil was given in doses up to 300 drops a day. The internal treatment was not satisfactory, as the stomachs of the sick rejected the fluid very soon. Dr.
Donitz conceived the idea of injecting the fluid hypodermically, and discovered that local and general reaction occurred within a short time.

The general reaction shows itself in a rising of the temperature for several days. The local reaction shows in a reddening of the flesh where the injection was made. Especially did the physician find a rapid reaction in the eyes. Here he found a severe periclitic reaction. The injections were repeated until the eyes of the patients became clear.

After a few injections the infiltrations began to disappear. These had the form of hard swellings beneath the skin, or in other words, beneath the

RAPID TRANSIT
TRACK LAYING

Work Began Yesterday on Wilder Avenue Near
Oahu College.

Track laying for the Rapid Transit Company began in earnest yesterday morning on Wilder avenue, near Puna-hou College. The plows were put to work and soon had a section of the street furrowed. These were followed by the scrapers and the road bed for the laying of the ties was soon opened up. Manager Ballentyne and Engineer Amweg were both present when the first plowful of dirt was overturned and superintended the beginning of the work.

The line thus commenced will extend down Wilder avenue to Pensacola, thence to Lunalihi, thence to Alapai where connections with the power house at the corner of Alapai street and Beretania avenue will be made.
Proceeding thence across King street and along South street, a turn will be made on Queen street, Ewa, to Alakea, thence to the Young Men's Christian Association corner, thence down Liliha street, up Liliha to Wyllie street.

At present the company is laying a single track with switch loops at regular intervals. By so doing the work will proceed rapidly and the line will be in position and ready for service within the time already specified by the manager, which is set for February, 1901. Trolley poles are being placed in position and the linemen will keep pace with the track laying, although this is not necessary for the wire can be strung after the rails are all laid.

WHY HE WOULD NOT DO.

The carefully reared young man had left his native village and gone to the city to find a situation and a career. His acquaintance was small, and because of that he simply went about from place to place seeking whatever fate might throw in his way. He wanted to get into a wholesale grocery house, and of course he only visited houses in that line. He was almost rudely turned away from the first three or four places, but finally he found one where the proprietor himself received him with courtesy. He stated his case briefly and clearly, as he had read in a guide book to young men starting out in life, and the merchant looked him over.

"Um," he said thoughtfully, "you have had no experience in this business?"
"No, sir," responded the applicant, "but I want to learn it."

"Yes, I see. Do you chew tobacco?"
"No, sir."
"Do you smoke?"
"No, sir."
"Do you play poker?"
"No, sir."
"Do you bet on the races?"
"No, sir."
"Do you drink?"
"No, sir."
"Do you run around at night?"
"No, sir."

"Um," he hesitated the merchant, "and you have had no experience in this business?"
"No, sir, but, as I said, I want very much to learn it."

"I'm sorry," said the merchant, shaking his head, "but I'm afraid you won't do for me. Your early education has been neglected, and you are handicapped now with so much to learn that the Lord only knows when the business would have a chance. Stay in town a year, and then come and see me. Good morning," and he turned away.
